This is an activity offered by the Semel Institute at UCLA, a CMA-accredited provider.

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

This full-day conference will provide psychiatrists and other health and mental health professionals an overview of the special mental health needs of people with developmental disabilities. Speakers will discuss the essentials of a comprehensive mental health assessment. They will then focus on the appropriate use of psychotropic medications in this group of individuals. An innovative short-term treatment program for children with autism will be presented. Community based residential and inpatient treatment models will be presented and discussed. Finally, problems in accessing quality mental health care will be reviewed.

The overall goal of the conference will increase participants' knowledge and skills in the management of mental disorders in people with developmental disabilities. This conference is co-sponsored by the Tarjan Center for Developmental Disabilities, the San Gabriel/Pomona and Inland Regional Centers, and is co-sponsored and supported by a grant from the State of California Department of Developmental Services- Health and Wellness Section.
